SUBJECT: CIA History Program

1. In anticipation of our discussion, which will be at your convenience, I trust the following may be helpful:

a. With the departure  the DD/M&S needs to appoint a history officer. It is not much of a job. What I need is someone to act as a referent on the directorate's involvement in the Agency history program. This would include: orderly termination of the DD/M&S component history program; monitoring responses to my memo on a possible intelligence museum collection; coordinating participation in the directorate's contribution to the histories of major Agency activities; cooperating with the history staff in the identification and retention of historical documents; looking ahead to future histories as new activities emerge. (Based on Larry's editorial proclivities, he is well-qualified.)

STAT

b. Here is a status report on the remaining portion of the DD/M&S component histories:

i. Office of Medical Services, Clinical Program (Project 5.037) is in our hands, thank you. Larry and I agreed that I'll deal with his comments, not Tietjen.

ii. OMS, Psychiatric Staff (Project 5.038) is being revised by OMS and was expected to be submitted to the history staff by 1 February 1974. We haven't seen it yet.

iii. Office of Personnel, Honor and Merit Awards (Project 5.061) has gone to OP for signature.

iv. OP, Missing in Action, is in final processing by the history staff and will soon be submitted to OP for signature.

v. Office of Finance, An Overview (Project 5.075) was supposed to be returned to the history staff in a revised version by 30 June 1973. (Since we have not received it, I suspect work has been suspended. Personally, I doubt it should be resumed; but, it would be tidy to clear the record.)

vi. Air America, 1946-1972 (Project 3.088) is being written [redacted] under Charlie Kane's direct supervision. (Let's leave it that way, if you agree.)

c. In my last management conference, we discussed the feasibility of an overview of the support activities as a history of a major activity. The general idea would be to review the existing histories and to synthesize them into a new history which would give proper recognition to the various components, such as communications, logistics, finance, personnel, and medical services. It may be best to focus on geographical areas as Brownman suggested. We also need to match names against topics.

d. I'm willing to discuss space, but only if you so choose.

Objective #1

Terminate [] program)
as of 30 June 1974 and the rest of the component history program by 1 April 1974.

Status: [] is down to two people. One will retire as of 30 June 1974; the other will be re-assigned by DDO.

There are still 20 histories underway by DDO components. Ten of these are in the hands of the history staff. They will be reviewed; probably none will be accepted as an adequate history.

There are six DDO histories awaiting the signature of the component chief.

There is one history being typed by the history staff.

There are six histories in various stages of production. When they are submitted to the history staff, they will be reviewed, accepted, or rejected. One is a special case which will be processed without editing.

The DDO history officer understands that all present and future work on component histories is on the initiative of the DDO. After 30 June 1974, the history staff will accept component submissions only to sit in judgment on them. They will be "published" only if they make a substantive contribution to the history program's list of approved topics.

There are still six histories in various stages of production in the DD/M&S.

One is awaiting the signature of the component chief.

Two are in final processing by the history staff.

Three have not been submitted yet, including the history of Air America. (Charlie Kane has reported on this separately.)

There are nine histories still pending in the DD/I.

One is in final processing by the history staff.

Of the remaining eight, seven are expected to be submitted to the history staff by 30 June 1974. The other will be a monograph for internal use which will be submitted to the history staff to accept or reject.

The DD/S&T program is complete.
